Selling

We know that you have a closet full of clothes but simply nothing to wear. Let us help you clear out your closet in a sustainable and convenient manner, which can earn you some extra cash. We accept items from a wide variety of brands and styles.

At Clotheslyne, we want to save you time and energy by facilitating the transactions between buyers and users. Therefore, we want you to sell your clothes directly to us. Visit our website or app to submit photos of clothes you are looking to rehome. Our stylists will inspect your items and Clotheslyne will either accept or reject each item. We will send you a free label to ship us your items and will provide Clotheslyne Credit in exchange for your pieces. Clotheslyne Credit can be used toward anything in our unlimited closet or toward a monthly subscription box. Rejected items can also be sent in to be donated to shelters or recycled responsibly.

Renting

If you are looking for easy access to your dream closet of high end-designer goods or special occasion wear at your dream price, try our monthly subscription boxes.

We know that shopping for clothes can consume a lot of time. Subscribers who purchase a monthly subscription box will fill out our style and sizing quiz. You can also send us your pinterest boards and what you are looking for each month, so we can get a better idea of your style.

Each month, subscribers will receive personalized clothing suggestions from our stylists. Subscribers can then pick which items they want and add additional items from our closet. Selected items will be shipped to you. At the end of the month, you can either keep your items for an extended period, swap them out for different pieces, or purchase individual articles for a special members-only price.

Buying

We understand that renting is not for everyone. If you are looking for a sustainable method for buying clothes, shop from our preloved clothing closet. In contrast to our high-end subscription service, we are giving you the option to buy clothes from various brands a fraction of the retail price. Shop our closet, and we will ship it to you for free.
